

DOING
THE MOST GOOD™

Candy Wreath

What you need

- Wire hanger
- Approximately 100 wrapped candies
- Curling ribbon

Make a wreath using hard, wrapped candies, ribbon and a hanger!

How to make it

Straighten the hanger and then cut it in half using wire cutters (only half will be used). Bend one of the pieces of hanger into a circle shape. Twist one end around the other to secure, leaving about three inches of one of the ends free. Bend that end over to form a small circle or hook for hanging. Use a pair of pliers if necessary. If needed, you can also use some duct tape to help secure the ends.

Once you have the wreath base made, you can add the candy! Use any kind of wrapped candy you like – anything from traditional peppermint rounds to suckers. Approximately one large bag or 100 of them will fill your hanger nicely, but this number can vary quite a bit from person to person because of how close they are tied.

Cut the curling ribbon into 8-inch pieces. Take one piece of candy and tie it to the center of a piece of ribbon. Then, use the ribbon to tie the candy tightly onto the wreath (you can also use wire to attach the candies). You can either cut off the extra ribbon or leave it. The ends can be curled to add a nice touch to your wreath. Continue this process until you have the wreath as full of candy as you like.

Hang your wreath and keep a pair of scissors nearby to share the candy with visitors!

